BRITAIN IS NOW BUILDING HUGE RIGID AIRSHIPS

Keels are now being laid in Great Britain for huge rigid airships which will hover above the clouds with a number of small fighting machines on board ready to launch at a foe, says an aeronautical expert in the London Daily Chronicle. The task of these new machines in war, he says, will be to carry aloft to immense heights and to transport, if necessary, thousands of miles, squadrons of swift, deadly, steel-built "attack planes." There will be launched from high above the clouds, and will rush at 200 miles an hour and more earthward to carry other aircraft and raid the commerce of the seas.

"The airships will have the power, lacking in a small machine," the writer says, "of long distance flights at a great altitude, while on the other hand, the small planes they carry will be able to outfly and outfight any machine laden for a long journey."

"In the case of specially-organized attacks by these formidable air-borne fighters on planes carried aloft by motor-ships, the tactics of the craft sent darting down from airships will be to dive pell-mell on their air-attack opponents, and strike them deadly blows before they can gain the vantage-point of altitude. Height in air-warfare is the key to victory, and these airship-carrier fighters will have the advantage of being in a position to choose their own moment for a swoop upon enemy aircraft climbing from the earth."

The Chronicle's contributor says that France, Italy and the United States all show a growing recognition of the importance of mobile "aerial harbors" for swarms of fighting-planes. The United States already has laid the keel of an airship which will launch single-seater fighters and pick them up again while the mother-craft is travelling at full speed. The first American "flying aerodrome," he adds, will be ready to take the air this summer. It will carry as a normal load 12 fighters of the latest type.

Great Britain has completed the first seagoing vessel in the world designed specially for the transport of aircraft. She has a displacement of 10,560 tons and carries seven 6-inch guns, four 4-inch, and a number of smaller guns. Besides torpedo armament, the vessel is fitted with two hangars, enabling her to carry 20 air-planes, which will be raised to the take-off decks by means of electric elevators.

Another advance in aerial efficiency is the construction, for the British Air Ministry, of huge seaplanes with a speed of 125 miles an hour.

One of the latest types has a wing span of 112 feet and carries nearly two tons of gasoline. It is fitted with twin Condor engines of 1,200 horse-power each, driving twin propellers."

MARK DISAPPEARS

New York, Sept. 13.—The German mark has sunk so low in value that United States banks are giving up the task of trying to compute its worth and are beginning to strike it off their lists of foreign exchanges. The mark has declined to a new low record of 145,000,000 to the dollar.

YOUR LUCK

Do not give up when things go wrong.
Don't give way to despair;
Just hum a cheery little song,
And drive away dull care.

Your lot may seem bereft of joy,
But you should not feel glum;
For what you call Bad Luck, my boy,
Would seem good luck to some.

You have your sight, your limbs, your health,
Why should you talk of woe?
Though you may have no gold as wealth,
You're richer than you know.

You may think things are breaking bad,
And life's all out of plumb;
But what you call Bad Luck, my lad,
Would seem Good Luck to some.

LLOYD GEORGE WILL SAIL FROM ENGLAND SEPT. 29

Will Deliver First Speech on This Side at Montreal, October 6

Ottawa, September 11.—Ex-Premier David Lloyd George will sail from England on the Mauritania on September 29, for New York for a visit to Canada and the United States. He is expected to reach New York on October 6, and will come direct to Montreal, where he will deliver his first speech on this side of the ocean on October 6. This information was supplied by Sir Alfred Cope, former under-secretary of Ireland in the Lloyd George regime, who was in Ottawa yesterday.

Mr. Lloyd George, who will be accompanied by his wife and daughter, will visit all the principal cities of Canada as far west as Winnipeg, before proceeding to the United States.

WOULD TREAT 'EM ROUGH

Calgary Herald: Farmers tell the press that they have gone to the local employment bureau, have asked for men when the office was full, have offered the prevailing rate of wages and have had not one acceptance.

One farmer mentioned that he had offered $4.50 a day to men in the employment office and not one man would go to his farm.

The city council should take note of this situation.

Any man out of work who will not go to a farm to help with the harvest when offered reasonable wages, is a loafer, pure and simple, and he should be run out of town.

The chief of police should be instructed to detail an officer to the employment bureau. Every man offered work at the prevailing scale should be checked up. If he refuses to go to the fields he should be given the minimum amount of time to get out of Calgary.

Action of this sort should be taken promptly. Alberta is no place for shirkers and loafers at the present time.

(Above) Hong Kong from the sea, inset, a picturesque freight junk. (Circle) C.P.S.S. "Empress of Canada" in between that port and Canton. (Right) A sunset view of Hong Kong harbor, and below, one of the palatial river steamers which ply between that port and Canton.

WHEN you make your trip to the Far East, in which China must be embraced, you will be sure to visit Hong Kong and Canton, for both places are renowned in poetry and prose the world over. You cannot, very well, call at Hong Kong without "making your number" at Canton, for the places are only eighty miles distant from each other.

The Canadian Pacific "Empress" call at Hong Kong and from there you can proceed to Canton by either train or river steamer. Those in the "Empress" usually go by train and return by steamer, or vice versa. By the train you will be able to feast your eyes on southern China inland scenery and village life. By the steamer you go up or down the Canton river. Both journeys are interesting; but the run on the Canton river will be more enjoyed. A number of the Canton river steamers, as well as being large, fast and spacious vessels, will take a lot of beating as regards accommodation, table and general service so low in rate that times plenty of excellent company on board—visitors like yourself, and European residents to various parts of Asia—in whom you will discover charming and instructive companions.

There will be so much to attract your attention in Hong Kong that your heart's desire will be to "just see every place of interest at one time." As your steamer glides into the magnificent harbour hundreds of Chinese junks will be thrust upon your view, under sail, tacking, "going about" and at anchor. They are all picturesque to a degree, with their rich brown sails, peculiar rig, and their hulls with an eye on the port and starboard sides of the bow, for, as the Chinese will explain to you, "Suppose no got eye, no can see."

Stretched before you, as your steamer passes, is the wharf at Kowloon, the noble Praya—now named Connaught Road—or waterfront, their waterfront, The Bund, part of the Praya, to the left, is land reclaimed from the sea. Splendid buildings, with their tiers of verandahs, have been erected upon it, among which is that of the Hong Kong Club, one of the most luxurious social institutions in the world.

"OPEN DOOR" FOR IMMIGRANTS

Tens of Thousands from Europe
Asset to Canada

Ottawa, September 12.—Plans are being laid for next season in the expectation that immigration to Canada will show a marked increase, according to a statement of immigration policy issued here last night by Hon. J. A. Robb, minister of the department.

With the certainty of a bountiful harvest, the statement says, which in Western Canada exceeds that of any previous years, and the prospects of better times returning, not only for farming but also for other industries, the government will pursue an adequate immigration policy.

Glut of Statement

The statement continues: "The restrictive regulations that were found necessary during the reconstruction period, most of which have already been cancelled, created

In the minds of many people abroad doubt as to their welcome in Canada and as to the ability to meet the standards set up. It is believed that the time has come to extend operations with a view to encouraging the immigration of the largest possible number of those classes that Canada can now absorb."

An Asset to Canada

While there are some who immigrated to Canada who are not suited owing to physical, moral or industrial unfitness, says the statement, or because they belong to races that cannot be assimilated without social or economic loss to Canada, there are at the same time in Great Britain and continental Europe tens of thousands of skilled and unskilled workers (not agriculturists) who would be an asset to Canada if steady employment could be found for them.

An adequate immigration policy, it is pointed out, must recognize that while Canada requires increased population, quality rather than quantity must count; that British immigration must hold first place in the programme; and that the selection of Canada's new settlers must have due regard to physical, industrial and financial fitness, and the Dominion's power of absorption.

Land Settlers Needed

The greatest need is for those able and willing to settle on the land and assist in agricultural development.

While capital is essential to immediate land settlement, its absence will not close the road to prosperity to those strong of hand and stout of heart, determined to succeed.

"The open door policy will prevail for those classes likely to succeed and for whom there is a demand," the statement continues. "In the interests of the immigrant and of Canada, determination of fitness will, as far as possible, take place before the immigrant leaves his own country."

Facilities Offered

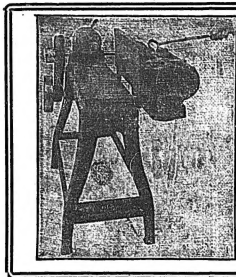

"Facilities will be offered for the immigration of such skilled and unskilled labor (other than agricultural) as Canada may require from time to time."

"As the British Isles alone cannot furnish a sufficient quota of the agricultural classes, efforts will be made to encourage immigration from certain areas of the continent of Europe and from the United States. "In co-operation with the British government under the terms of the Empire Settlement Act, it is proposed to extend the schemes affording assistance to those of the agricultural and houseworker classes from the mother country."

The statement concludes with the announcement that with a view to placing farm workers and settlers to the best advantage, the Soldiers' Settlement Board has been allied with the department of immigration. It is recognized that the flow of immigration must be natural, and wide settlement is more attractive, it will not have any permanent benefit.

Of 51,000 farmers in Manitoba, 25,000 of them are producing and shipping milk and cream. From being an importer of dairy products prior to the war, Manitoba is now one of the largest exporting provinces in the Dominion. In 1914 the province imported 70 carloads, but now exports amount to 100 carloads a year and are steadily increasing. This remarkable development is attributed to the high quality of the butter.

SINCERITY IN SPEECH

In reading stories of the Orient from Turkey to China most of us have no doubt sometimes wondered a little at the extravagant forms of address used in these countries, especially from an inferior to a superior. "Radiance of the World," "Omnipotent Lord of Kings," "Thou at whose frown all the world trembles," and so on. We are sometimes inclined to wonder how those who use these ludicrous expressions and those who hear them used can keep their faces straight and avoid shouting with laughter at the absurdity of them. We may even think they are an indication of a complete lack of elementary humour on the part of the peoples of these lands.

We might do well to turn our eyes nearer home before we definitely form any such opinions and ask ourselves whether there is not something of the same kind in practice among ourselves. Is there not a considerable amount of almost equally ludicrous insincerity shown in many of our public speeches? Have we not all of us heard long eulogies pronounced amid a chorus of "hear, hear" and applause upon people for whom neither the speaker nor the audience had any other feeling except complete indifference or even dislike. Yet such speeches are listened to quite solemnly. They are regarded as perhaps a little tedious but nothing worse than that. They are simply part of the current social conventions just as are the fantastic titles used in oriental lands which we have just alluded to. By the way we might also remind our readers that for sheer absurdity nothing can well surpass the titles and names in use among the Klu Klux Klan, and even among other slightly more reputable orders or fellowships. However, to return to the question of speeches, we have ourselves heard a speech on the moral progress of the Dominion delivered to a large crowd of Canadian citizens by a man who notoriously had been with difficulty kept sober for the occasion by his friends. (This was in the dear dead days before we mean that it was a very long time ago). Yet nobody seemed to feel that there was anything wrong with this oration. It was not regarded as being delivered in a vein of bitter sarcasm. We have also heard a man say that he had come to shudder at the sound of that jovial song "For he's a jolly good fellow" through having heard it repeatedly dragged out in honour of hopelessly uninspiring nonentities, who were neither jolly nor yet good. This habit of indiscriminate eulogy seems to be unfortunately on the increase among us in all quarters from the lowest to the highest. In the British Parliament there appears to be a tendency to demand that whenever a prime minister or ex-prime minister dies, a statue should be at once erected in memory of him in Westminster Abbey, however mediocre he may have been as a prime minister, where as formerly this high honour was reserved for only the outstanding figures in the world's history. It is a practice which once started is most difficult to stop because of the singularly ungrateful and ungracious character of the task imposed on anybody of opposing a tribute to a man lately dead. Yet the memorial to the younger Pitt, surely one of the greatest British statesmen of all time, was officially opposed in the House of Commons at the time of his death, and the opposition was not thought out of place in those who had disapproved of his policy.

It is the same in more humble spheres. If the acting-deputy-assistant-under-postmaster of a one-store village leaves for some place 15 miles or so down the line, it is nowadays thought no manner to give him the most appropriate to a banquet, that the place can devise, and all the local worthies, including probably all the competitors for his job after his departure, turn up, and after an other express their tearful and un-ling regret that their dear old friend (they have probably known him less than a year) should be thus reft from their midst by the mysterious dictates of an unrelenting and indiscriminate Providence, and that next morn'g, will they see his like again—at least until his successor follows him down the line. (Then comes the For he's a jolly good fellow stanza, words, tunes and feelings varying not a little). Thereafter the Jolly Good Fellow, who has been privately thanking Heaven fervently that he is going to escape from this one-eyed dead-and-alive hole, gets up and says that if they regret his departure, their regret is nothing compared to his at going, that he will always think of them and the place with the utmost affection, and his one hope is that circumstances will allow him to revisit them soon and often. It sounds perhaps harmless enough, but it really is not so. There is a degradation of the faculty of speech involved in such occasions that is really mischievous. It is in the same category as the crying of "Wolf" when there is no real danger, the effect of which is to breed a false sense of security. THE IRISH ELECTIONS

The results of the first election for the Free State of Ireland's Parliament are not as satisfactory as at first seemed likely. It was generally expected that the people of Southern Ireland had had a bitter experience of what Republicanism meant that they would wholly repudiate it at the polls, and the first results announced seemed to bear out this expectation, but the final results show that approximately from one-third to one-fourth of the seats have fallen to the Republicans. The Free State government party have not secured an absolute majority over the other parties, Independent Labour, Farmers and Republicans. Inasmuch as all of these non-government parties except the Republicans are in favour of the treaty with Great Britain, these results are not likely to raise any acute difficulties between Great Britain and Ireland, but they are likely to make things distinctly difficult for the present government party. Only by compromise and coalition, temporary or permanent, can the government be carried on, and it is uncertain yet how far such a coalition can be arranged. The really disturbing element in the result is that it shows that there is still a quite considerable section of Southern Ireland unalterably opposed to any reasonable compromise with Great Britain, and ready to expose their country to all the miseries of renewed war rather than agree to such compromise. The military strength of the Free State government is probably great enough to prevent any very effective revival of the civil war by the Republicans, but the latter can still cause the government great anxiety and probably a good deal more than anxiety. It has been a tradition of centuries that Irishmen could not agree and act together, but the Irish themselves have always maintained that this was merely due to the fact that England had never given them the chance to agree and work together. Now they have got their chance, but their behaviour at the outset is none too promising for the future. It is, of course, far too early to say that they cannot develop the capacity for ordered and peaceful co-operation, and it is to be earnestly hoped that they will do so, both for their own sake and that of their country, over which for so long a tragic doom has seemed to hover. They cannot expect, and they would certainly resent, help and advice from outside. They have made Sinn Féin, "Ourselves Alone," their watchword, and themselves alone they must face the inevitable future, be it ever difficult and possibly disastrous, such future may be.

LYNCHING IN THE STATES

Judging by the newspaper reports, the cases of lynching of negroes in the States are still frequent. The incidents of these cases are very similar to one another. There is, an assault on an alleged assault by a negro or negroes on a white woman or child, a flight and pursuit by a sheriff's posse or a posse of white men, capture, and then with apparently little or no trial or investigation even of the most informal kind the negro is shot, hanged or burned at the stake, a terrible mode of punishment for which it is hard to see a defence.

The explanation of these cases is comparatively clear. Especially in the Southern States the negro is increasing in numbers fast. His standard of civilization is as a rule low. In many cases he is lawlessly savage, and a dangerous and brutal savage. His attitude towards the dominant white race is increasingly defiant, not to say hostile. The whites of the South have never lost their attitude of regarding the negro as little better than a domestic animal and one which must at all costs never be allowed to attain a position of equality with the whites, far less one of superiority. To much of this the negro is reluctant and more or less successfully reluctant to concede to the negro in practice the political rights or the position before the courts of law which in theory were given to him after the Civil War. He is still in their eyes something like an animal to be kept strictly in his place while he behaves and ruthlessly destroyed if he does not. Added to this is the notorious slowness and inefficiency of the criminal law all over the States.

That being so, the whites of the South are always aggressively on guard against what they look upon as a real and terrible danger from the negroes, and knowing from their own experiences the inferior character of their criminal courts, they refuse to allow the guilty negro any chance of profit by the slowness and weakness of these courts. They argue that it is better to have the chance of murdering an innocent man than the risk of allowing this mass of semi-savages to get it into their heads that they can challenge the supremacy of the whites. They further argue that the more prompt the means of terrible the character of these lynchings, the less is their effect spread, and the wider often they have to be resorted to.

The British Empire contains many lands where an exceedingly small minority of white people are maintaining British authority, British justice, British civilization and British peace among hordes of semi-savages, and are doing so almost entirely by virtue of a prestige which alone saves them from immediate death. Such prestige must at times be maintained by methods quicker and surer than those of even the most efficient law courts. We should therefore be slow to condemn the people of the United States if they resort to non-judicial methods to guard against what they consider a great danger. Yet, when all that is said, it is impossible to regard the frequency of these lynchings with anything but disapproval, and the circumstances which sometimes accompany them cannot escape whole-hearted denunciation. It is said that in some cases these lynchings have come to be regarded almost as public entertainments; that crowds including women and children attend them as if to witness a baseball match, and that even cinematograph pictures have been taken of negroes being burnt at the stake. There can be no defence for this. It points to an increasing degradation and brutalization of the population generally. Such things are not the outcome of a stern demand of a menaced people for swift and certain punishment of a criminal savage. They are the barbarous expression of a demoralized craving for enjoyment in the torture of another human being. All mobs tend to be cruel, but it seems that the mobs of hot southern countries tend to be cruel in a stinging, blood-thirsty fashion which is simply revolting to the normal Anglo-Saxon mind, at least in modern times. We have to remember that it is less than 300 years ago since fashionable people in England used to attend and watch the torturing of criminals or suspected criminals much as they now attend a cricket match.

There is something very ominous about this development in the States. It seems to mean either that the character of the people is slipping back to the brutality of a by-gone age, or that it is changing under the influence of climate and the admixture of immigrant blood from Southern Europe, and is taking on the merciless emotion at cruelty which is characteristic of races living in southern and semi-tropical countries.

Not lawless and cruel lynching is the answer to the negro problem in the south, but the reform and strengthening of the law and equally the reform and education of the negro. The general adoption of the former method would go far to prove the breakdown of American civilization.

There should be one great policy for the Alberta government to pursue should all other policies fail, and that is to secure reduced freight rates for our coal to Eastern Canada. If successful, that would be one of the greatest benefits that could be conferred upon this province.

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Issued by Publicity Commission,
Government Buildings, Edmonton.
Saturday, September 15, 1923

There is an erroneous impression abroad that the Provincial Government has changed all dates for opening of the shooting season.

changed is that for the opening of the duck season, which was moved forward from September 1st to September 15.

The open season for partridge is as it has always been, the entire month of October, the only change in this respect being an order prohibiting shooting partridge north of the Battle River. The open season for prairie chicken is unchanged, being from October 15 to October 31.

Prince in Alberta
The Prince of Wales, travelling as Lord Renfrew, reached Alberta this week-end for his month's stay on his ranch near High River. His visit is strictly formal, and there will be no official functions.

Threshing Licenses
Those threshers in the province who have not yet received their licenses for the year, should send in applications at once to the Department of Agriculture at Edmonton. It is imperative that all threshers be licensed, and those who do not display their licenses when asked to do so by the authorities are liable to prosecution.

Party Visits Tar Sand Plant
A party including several prominent railway officials of the province, and others, paid a visit to the tar sand deposit and the new tar sand plant located at Waterways, last week, under the guidance of John Callaghan, Deputy Minister of Railways. The party was much interested in what was being done to place the tar sands on the basis of commercial production for paving purposes and for extraction of oil. The plant at Waterways is owned by the McMurtry Asphalting and Oil Ltd.

Clinical Congress
The clinical congress of the Alberta and Saskatchewan sections of the American College of Physicians and Surgeons was held in Edmonton last week, when a number of distinguished physicians from Eastern Canada and the United States were present.

Tourist Travel Heavy
Probably in no other year in its history has tourist travel to Alberta been as heavy as this year, and an even heavier year is anticipated for 1924. The Canadian National Railway reports the heaviest year in tourist traffic in its history, many hundreds having visited Jasper Park. The C.N.R. convey similar information, and the reports of auto traffic show that this has also been a very heavy year. Nearly 6,000 cars, many of them from United States points, have been registered at Banff Park alone up to the end of August.

Alberta Member Railway Commission
The appointment has been announced of Hon. Frank Oliver, of Edmonton, to the vacancy in the Railway Commission, created by the death of Dr. J. G. Rutherford. Mr. Oliver is a veteran newspaperman of Alberta, and was formerly Minister of the Interior.

Heavy Yields of Wheat
Reports of some heavy yields of wheat are coming in from country districts. One farmer has an average of 53 bushels on his wheat acreage, and at Magrath another farmer averaged 51 bushels from 150 acres. At Lacombe a report of 52 bushels from one farm is recorded. Training will be general for another week or ten days, however.

Coal Output Increases
According to figures provided by the preliminary report on mineral production in Canada for the first six months of 1923, Alberta has produced in those six months a total of 2,232,221 tons of coal, compared with 2,265,226 in the same period of 1922.

SPANISH KING STANDS BEHIND REVOLUTIONARY ARMY OFFICERS

Cabinet Resigns When the Premier Is Refused Right to Punish Rebels

Madrid, September 14.—King Alfonso this afternoon asked Captain General Primo Rivera, leader of the military movement against the Albuquerque cabinet to form a government.

It was announced by Captain-general Munoz Cobo of Madrid, who has changed with the maintenance of public order, that a proclamation of martial law was necessary.

Madrid, September 14.—The Spanish cabinet resigned this morning. King Alfonso has returned to the capital of the di-extraction.

On leaving the station, the king proceeded direct to the palace, where he had a conference with Premier Albuquerque.

It is understood that the premier requested his majesty to grant the government facilities for armistice of the military revolution in Barcelona and elsewhere. The king refused, and the premier thereupon submitted the resignation of the entire cabinet.

The newspaper A. B. C. says it understands that Primo Rivera, captain-general of Barcelona, and leader of the military movement against the government, will preside over a directorate composed of competent officials, who will assume charge of the various industries. Meanwhile civilians of proved capacity and independent of politics will be sought to form a cabinet to replace the directorate.

The newspaper says the present programme is to govern with out parliament, which will be dissolved. New election will not be held as long as the present political conditions prevail.

Cleaning Up Politics
Barcelona, Sept. 14.—Leaders of the military movement are keeping forgers under close surveillance, and are granting to only a few persons permission to cross the frontier.

Captain-General Primo Rivera explained, in an interview, that the purpose of the movement was "cleaning up politics and making them honest." Its cause, he asserted, was "the obstinacy of the government in refusing to get rid of a handful of ministers whom it forced upon the people and the king."

The revolt has extended to Madrid, according to Rivera, although the officers there have been kept to their barracks.

LONDON PLANNING ANOTHER STREET IN HEART OF THE CITY

London, September 14.—The plan of the London streets have been vividly revealed in an official report which shows that in the months of April, May and June more than 18,000 accidents occurred and in these accidents 171 persons were killed. The congestion of traffic has become an important thoroughfare is a serious problem. To relieve the situation the plan proposes a construction of a new street at a cost of over £1,500,000.

Neptune Holds Court on a Famous Canadian Ship

A REMARKABLE photograph of the ceremonies that took place when the Canadian Pacific steamer "Empress of France" crossed the line on her recent "round-the-world" tour. Neptune accompanied by his royal harbor, and other officials came aboard in the early morning and duly initiated those who were crossing the line for the first time. His Majesty's stay on board was short, but the same cannot be said of the little god Cupid. He came on board early and stayed until the end of the trip, as may be gathered from the fact that out of a total of 500 passengers on that famous 30,000 mile cruise, no less than forty came to the end of the trip as engaged couples. This fine photograph of Neptune's court was made by Miss Margaret Miller of Waterbury, Conn., who was one of the ship's passengers.

SYLVAN LAKE SCHOOL FAIR

Most Successful Event—
Great Showing of Work

The Sylvan Lake School Fair was held on Wednesday, September 12, and was a big success. With ideal weather and abundance of entries in all events, the judges were kept busy; the competition between the schools of the district was indeed very keen. A great deal of credit and praise is due the teachers of the various schools for the splendid showing made by the scholars who by their display of work showed undeniable proof of the interest they are and have taken in their studies. The Sylvan Lake band put in an appearance in the afternoon which helped to make it a pleasant day for all. Mr. E. K. Wright, a former Sylvan Lake teacher, made a most efficient secretary, and President Dallaire and his directors also did their duty. The judges were Miss Houghton, Messrs. Hooten, Brunton and McCar, of the Old School of Agriculture; Inspector Gibson, and Mr. H. G. Stone, of Red Deer. The Inspector said it was the finest show of school work he had ever seen.

In the very same week the information was forthcoming that a young waitress at Durham, has given birth to four children, and the announcement was accompanied by the assurance that "all were doing well."

Some years ago a Palermo woman, Rose Saloni, presented her husband with five boys, all well formed, and, according to the doctor, "eating well and crying well." But she was a long way from wanting the record from the peasant girl, Gravata, of Tuscany, says Tilt-Bits.

Gravata was the twin daughter of a woman who was one of triplets. The daughter married a man of her own class. She set the seal of the family reputation when she made her husband a present of six sons, and followed the next year with five more!

After this she had triplets twice, which were followed by a quartet. Then ensued a procession of ones and twos, and, finally, came four boys all together. This brought the aggregate number of her living children up to 62, and assured her fame in obstetrical annals as "the Gravata case."

Brand's "History of Newcastle" credits a similar feat to the wife of a poor weaver in Scotland, but does not state how many children arrived at one and the same time. Her family, however, numbered 62. Of these, 46 boys and 4 girls survived to manhood and womanhood—Telegraph.

BLAME EARTHQUAKE FOR DISASTER TO U. S. DESTROYERS

Washington, Sept. 11.—The theory was expressed yesterday by high naval officials that a tidal wave or other seismic disturbances, reacting from the Japanese earthquake, caused the disaster to destroyer division 11 off the California coast.

Santa Barbara, California, Sept. 11.—The death list in the disaster which sent seven naval destroyers dashing on the rocks off Point Honda, 75 miles north of here, Saturday night, increased to 29 last night.

Orders given in the belief that the destroyer squadron had passed Point Anguilo, the north entrance to the Santa Barbara channel, caused the change of course that piled seven destroyers on the rocks at Honda with the probable loss of 23 men. It was recalled yesterday when the crews of the wrecked ships reached San Diego.

Cobalt, Ont., Sept. 13.—The first snow of the season fell in Cobalt and other northern points today.

IN TWENTY YEARS

1903 1923

"HE was only a little morsel of humanity one year old when I took out a 20-year endowment policy in the Mutual Life of Canada for him. It seemed a long way ahead then—it doesn't seem far looking back over those 20 years now."

"But the other night, when he came to me in the den, where I sat reading, it struck me very forcibly that my boy had grown into a man. He fairly towered above me where I sat in my lounging chair."

"Father," said he, "can you lend me $1,000?"

"What do you want with $1,000?" I demanded in surprise.

"It seems he had an opportunity of entering a motor agency and garage business with some other young fellows whose fathers I knew well as successful business men. I looked up the date of the Mutual Life policy before I gave my answer."

"Yes," I said. "I will have $1,000 for you on your 21st birthday—a little coming-of-age present from your mother and me."

"Do you know, it was a wonderful satisfaction to be able to say that!"

A Mutual Life Endowment Policy would put your boy through college, start him in business or help him in ways you might otherwise find difficult if not impossible.

Let us help you. Fill in this coupon and mail it to-day. We will send particulars in full.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son, John Frederick Macdonald, who died at Sherbrooke, Kent, England, on September 15, 1913.

No one knows how much we miss him. No one knows what bitter pain we have suffered since we lost him. Life has never been the same. There sleep the brave who sink to rest by all our arms, but leave no scars. When sleep with dewy fingers cold returns to drink their hallowed mould, they there shall dwell a sweeter soul than Fancy's feet have ever trod. By Fairy hands their knell is rung. By forms unseen they move and sigh. There honor comes a pilgrim gray To bless the turf that wraps their clay, And freedom shall arise and sweep To dwell a weeping hermit there. Five years have passed yet still we feel His presence ever near. And in our hearts will ever live His memory ever dear.

Inserted by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Macdonald (Hetherington) 37-1 Dor.

74,000 VICTIMS IN TOKIO ALONE WERE CREMATED

Half a Million Persons Have Left Capital of Japan by Train Since the Disaster.

Washington, September 14.—Seventy-four thousand bodies were cremated in Tokyo up to September 10, the Japanese embassy was informed yesterday in dispatches from its foreign office dealing with earthquake and fire casualties. Since September 4, the figures are 50,000 persons have been cremated in Tokyo.

The capital by train, but no estimate was possible of the number who departed alone, by boat, or other means. In Yokohama up to the 11th the foreign office said, there were 68,000 destroyed homes, out of a total of 82,000. The food supply is fairly good.

In other parts of Kanagawa prefecture, casualties to date are as follows: "Houses shaken down, 53,000; houses burned, 4,500; swept away by tidal waves, 70; houses partly burned, 22,000; number of dead, 4,300; injured 24,000.

The above figures include those given below for several important cities and towns: "In Yokohama, houses destroyed, 11,000; damaged, 300; dead, 400; injured, 300.

"In Odawara, 300 houses burned out and 1,700 shaken down; dead, 230; injured, 400.

In Kawasaki, dead, 200; injured, 1,700.

"Kamakura, dead, 500; injured, 1,700.

"Utsunomiya, dead, 300; injured, 2,000.

"Yokohama, dead, 40; injured, 2,300.

"Fujisawa, dead, 300; injured, 500.

"Osaka, dead, 200; injured, 700.

"No detailed information concerning loss of life or property in other prefectures has been received."

Frantic for the News Shanghai, Sept. 14.—An Eastern News agency report from Osaka yesterday said the people of that city are frantic for news of relatives and friends in Tokyo.

The report said there is no communication into Tokyo yet, but that the telegraph office in that city has assumed things to outside offices on September 7. As a result approximately 150,000 messages have been submitted daily to be sent out to outside points.

Those addressed to Osaka only 130 had reached Osaka on September 8.

In lieu of telegraph blanks, which are scarce, patrons are submitting messages written on handkerchiefs, gloves, cigarette packages and other articles.

A Better Tokyo Home Minister Ooto and Mayor Ikegami of Tokyo are laying plans for a greater Tokyo to arise from the ashes of the old capital. They are making plans for a large harbor in Tokyo Bay to be built in the vicinity of Yotsu and the lower reaches of the Sumida River.

A general widening of Tokyo's streets is projected and provision is being made for a large park to be a civic center, is the undertaking to be aided by funds from the national treasury. It is expected definite plans for rebuilding will be published in a few days.

Japanese contributions to the relief fund, it is reported, total more than 1,000,000 yen ($7,000,000).

Imports of cereals, beef and eggs are exempted from custom duties.

Things a Watch Owner Should Know

There is not such a thing as regulation of a watch that needs cleaning. Watches will continue to run for years after every bit of oil is dried up, but injury will surely follow. When the watch finally does stop, the highly tempered, finely finished steel pivots and winding parts are so badly worn that the cost of repairing will be very high and the watch may never again be as good.

To oil properly and clean a watch, the entire watch is taken apart, more than 100 parts; each part thoroughly cleaned, the oil taken out and all pivots regulated; the watch is then put together and new oil put in the proper places.
